For Immediate Release:

February 24, 2011

The JLCNY welcomes Governor Cuomo and staff to Binghamton but will not be picketing and protesting over the gas issue at the event out of respect for the Governor and the issues he will be dealing with today. The JLCNY supports the Governor in his efforts to bring our New York State budget under control. We believe that responsible drilling in New York will be a game changer for our New York economy and will be an essential element in accomplishing the Governor's goals. We in the JLCNY are confident that the Governor and DEC Commissioner Martens will address the important issue of developing New York's Natural Gas resources in a timely and cautious manner. We are even more confident that when they do, they will recognize that Natural Gas will be safely and responsibly developed in New York under the framework of the SGEIS and the strictest natural gas regulations in the Country. In the mean time, the JLCNY will continue to promote and foster such development, to protect the interests of landowners, and to educate all about Natural Gas development in a respectful and professional manner.
